DEDICATION

To Dr. Sponseller, our teacher and friend, we wish to dedicate our yearbook. In the minds of the seniors, he has become symbolic of all the best that a citizen could represent. He stands for the qualities that the school teaches us. No formal words or dedication can express the deep and warm personal feeling between each one of his students and "Doc," as he is affectionately called. He's the big brother with whom we often kidded, with whom we sometimes disagreed but to whom we turned for advice and sympathy. In years to come we will remember his warm friendliness and cherish it as one of our fondest remembrances of high school days.

FOREWORD

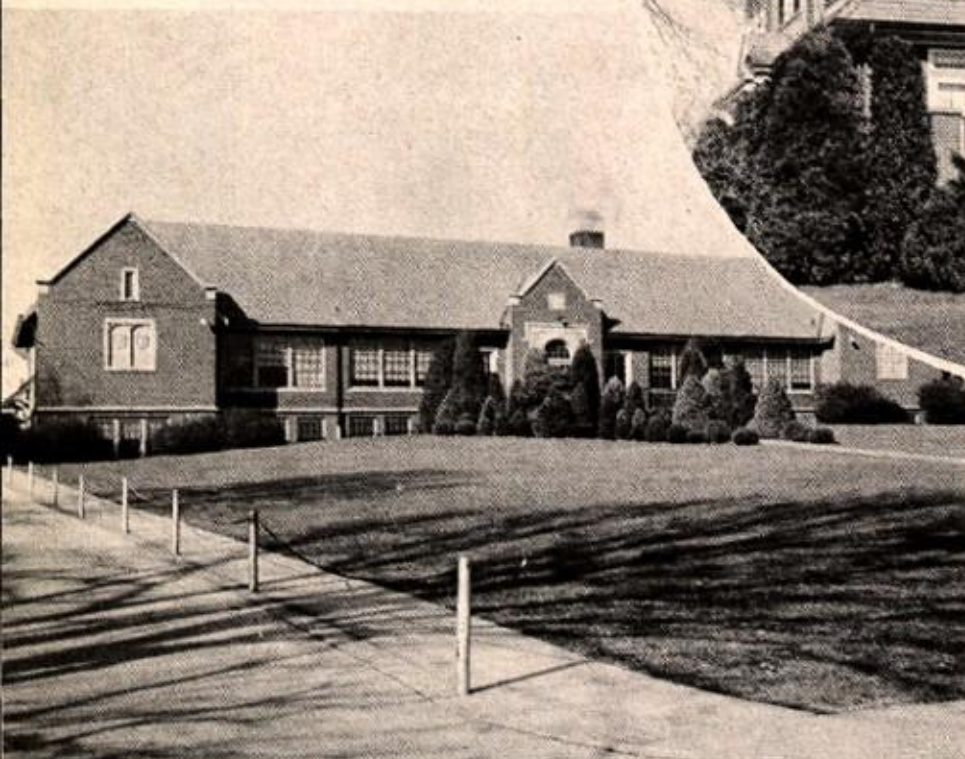

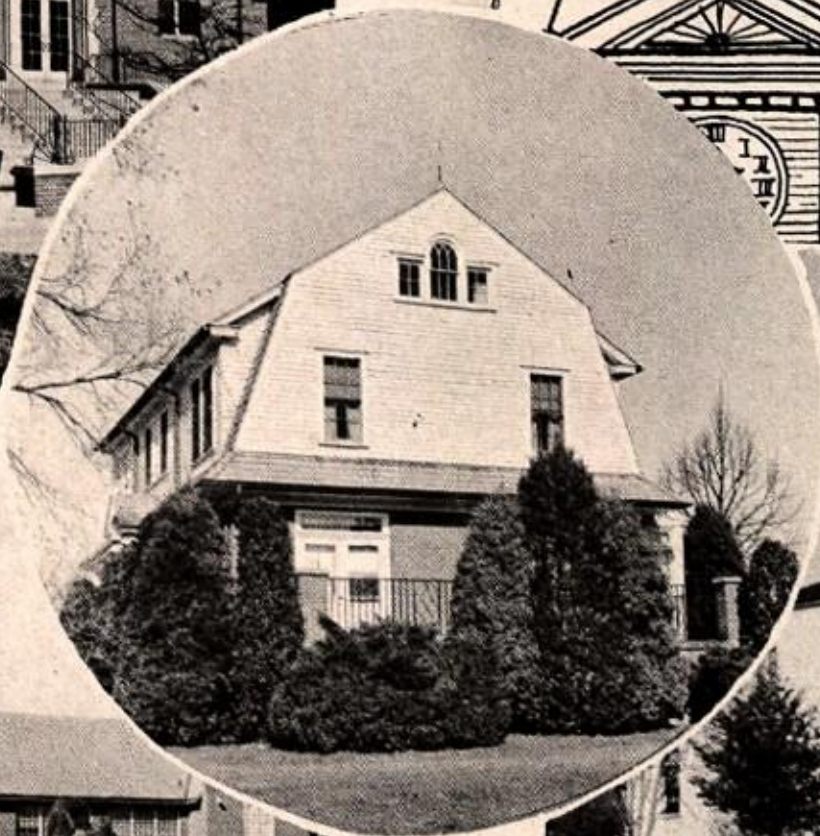

With this yearbook of 1952, we Seniors have attempted to compile a book which will be meaningful to all the school rather than just a collection of memories that would interest only the seniors. To do this we have included both comments and pictures from all phases of our school life -- from our academic activities to our maintenance department; from our sports to our musical endeavors; from our cafeteria to our Junior Prom. We hope that you will find the best recollections of this school year for you pictured in these pages whether you are an underclassman or a senior.

SCHOOL HISTORY

The history of the Hatboro public school system goes back a long way in the annals of history. Some twelve or thirteen years before the Civil War, voters went to the polls, or had a town meeting, or whatever they had in those days, and decided that henceforth Hatboro would have public schools. Before this time, Loller Academy, built in 1811 on ground given by Robert Loller, was the chief private academy. Besides the proverbial three R's such subjects as Greek, French, Latin, and drawing were taught. The original cost of erection of Loller Academy was eleven thousand dollars.

The beautiful clock in its tower came from the workshop of Isaiah Lukens, the same man who made the one in Philadelphia's famous shrine, Independence Hall.

After Hatboro's voters gave their support to a public school system, the enrollment increased steadily. By 1885 there were over two hundred pupils enrolled in the twelve grades of the school, which was then entirely situated in the Loller building. It became apparent that a new building would soon be needed. Arrangements were made for this new school, and in the year 1927, the building was completed.

A few years later a new mechanical arts building was added, which contains departments for metalwork, electrical work, printing, mechanical drawing, and wood work. Another section of this building is devoted to the music department of Hatboro.

Dramatics was a big item on the activity list in former times. Operettas, comedies, and serious plays were all presented, not only by classes but by clubs as well.

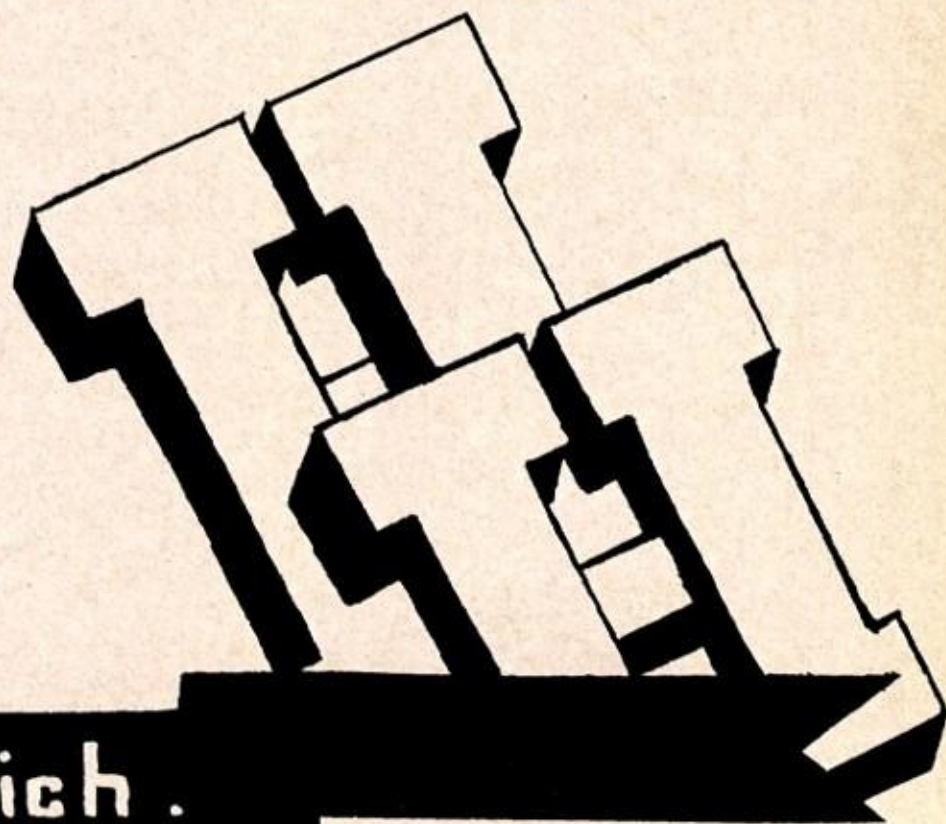

Sports was a major activity in former years also. Up to the time when the present gymnasium was completed in 1940, the basketball teams played in the Loller School. When the first track squads were organized, there was no cinder track as there is now. A straight track was laid out on Cemetery Avenue. Despite these definite handicaps some real "superteams" were produced.

The cry of "fire" is a terrible thing and when it is heard in a crowded building like a school, it often means disaster. When the alarm bells rang one day in 1939 it merely meant another fire drill. Students and teachers filed out; and only after they saw smoke billowing from the roof, did they realize that there actually was a fire. An entire wing was burned, but not a single life was lost.

This brings us to the last chapter in the growth of Hatboro High School, the addition of the new wing in 1951 containing classrooms, a beautiful and efficient cafeteria, and an entire science section of laboratories and lecture rooms. Hatboro has also built an additional elementary school, located on a part of the old Seltzer property at Meadowbrook and Pennsylvania Avenues.

Perhaps a comparison of student enrollment is the best way to show the growth of the Harboro schools. In 1875 there were 167 attending, in 1884 there were over two hundred, in 1925 it had grown to 373, and today the total number enrolled in the grade schools and in the high school is over thirteen hundred.

The history of the Harboro school has been a full one. Its pupils have made, in their own ways, their small contributions to the greatness of America. Hatboro's few rules and democratic practices make it ideal for promoting its program of education and citizenship. Hatboro, we salute you. May your future be as impressive as your past.

Chester A. Barnes
Supervising Principal, Hatboro Schools

The Joint School Board of Hatboro-Horsham High School came into existence in the school year of 1950-1951.

This consolidation was the result of a series of meetings held for a period of a year previous to the final decision to join the two boards. The big decision was approved and signed by all of the school board members.

The Joint Board consists of ten members, five from Hatboro and five from Horsham. The board meets regularly every third Monday of each month, unless otherwise designated, to discuss any problems of the school.

Charles S. Jones
 High School Principal

Chester A. Barnes, supervising principal, came to Hatboro High in the year 1932, while Charles S. Jones, principal, came in 1929. Although they are kept very busy attending to the school's business or problems, they still find time to talk with the students and advise them. Both principals are very interested in education and strive to provide as many varied activities as possible.

When we seniors had any difficulties, we went straight to them. We'll never forget the help, patience, and kindness which was shown to us, nor will we ever forget Mr. Barnes and Mr. Jones.

THE MAINTENANCE DEPARTMENT

Mr. Atkinson helping Hatboro School children on the school bus. Recently the Parent-Teachers Association presented him with a scroll in recognition of his great concern for the safety of our pupils. He has driven the bus for over ten years without a single injury.

Mr. Lyman getting a classroom ready for another day. After school hours he can always be seen with a mop in hand cleaning our halls and classrooms.

To keep our school running efficiently and competently we must have men who are willing to keep the school in good condition and keep it clean. It may not be the most noticed and outstanding job of the school, but it is by far one of the most important. Their job is to keep the grounds and lawn in excellent shape, clean the gym, rooms and halls, make repairs wherever they happen to be needed.

HI-HATTER STAFF

With the idea of producing a well-organized yearbook, the staff was chosen in early October. The four divisions of the staff -- Associate Editors, Editorial Staff, Activities Editors, and the Business Staff -- set to work immediately.

Individual biographies were written, snaps of all activities were caught, page trim and layout plans made and sales promotion begun.

The entire yearbook was under the direction of Mrs. Charlotte Greiner.

The purpose of our Student Council is student participation in school activities and government. For the past twenty-seven years a splendid spirit of co-operation has prevailed; therefore, our Student Council has become an important organization, both for the direction of school activities and for the motivation of citizenship training.

In June of 1951 our newly elected president for the 1951-1952 term, attended the 15th Annual Conference of the Student Council National Association in Wellesley, Massachusetts and for several days discussed the problems of our high school with students from 43 states and 9 foreign nations. Many helpful suggestions from the conference were used during our senior year at Hatboro.

This year our council published a new handbook, "The Hatters Guide", under the direction of a committee of six students with Margaret Rea as chairman.

On April 9, our school played host to two hundred students from schools in the Suburban Philadelphia area. We discussed common council problems and enjoyed a candlelight banquet in our new cafeteria. Dinner was followed by an hour's entertainment by Hatboro students. Our Assembly Committee with Eileen Connor as chairman provided good assemblies throughout the school year. Other activities included sponsorship of the Honor Society and the solution of many small problems.

Beverley Hanley, vice president of Student Council, receives the U.N. Flag.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

DEBATE TEAM

The highest honor that can be given to a high school student is membership in the National Honor Society. To qualify for this honor, a student must have a 2.4 average in scholarship and be outstanding in leadership, service and character.

While this organization is sponsored by The Student Council, Mr. Jones heads the faculty in determining who is to be admitted.

Membership in the National Honor Society is a worthy goal for every high school student.

It is a great honor to be invited to join the Debate Team sponsored by Mrs. Finney. This group of seniors participates on such programs as Junior Town Meeting of the Air and the WIBG Bux-Mont Forum. Members of the team are chosen for speaking ability, scholarship, a zest for arguing, and a willingness to do research work.

By doing an outstanding job each year, the Debate Team is adding to the good name of Hatboro-Horsham High School.

HAT - CHAT STAFF

Every Friday, fifth period finds the HAT-CHAT Staff busy at work on that month's issue of the newspaper. The HAT-CHAT has been seen around the high school for twenty-two years. It has been changed many times since it began, and is now in the form of a three-column newspaper.

Trying to meet a deadline presents the biggest problem to the staff, but digging up news is also a big job.

One of the most popular columns in the paper is "Under the Hat" which features news about the students themselves.

Miss Myrtle Williams started the HAT-CHAT in 1929, and it is now being continued under the sponsorship of Mr. Russell Alden.

The duty of the Reporters' Club is to report all school activities, such as dances, assemblies, and class activities which are then published in THE PUBLIC SPIRIT.

Membership is open to all grades of junior and senior high school. This year grades 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12 are represented.

The faculty sponsor is Miss Forbes, Latin and Spanish teacher, who does a magnificent job proofreading and organizing all reports which are then typed by the typists of the club.

ORCHESTRA

Hatboro students are rightfully proud of their orchestra although sometimes they allow it to fade into the background.

The orchestra makes several annual appearances. The musical intermissions for the junior and senior plays are supplied by this organization. The orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Bartle, plays for the Memorial Day service, Baccalaureate service, and Class Day. We are all familiar with the throbbing strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" to which the seniors step down the aisle at Commencement.

The loveliest presentation of all is the Spring Concert which provides a mood of color and music. The orchestra never fails to give forth an exceptional program that night.

GIRLS' GLEE CLUB

The Junior and Senior High School Glee Clubs are composed of 85 girls. In order to be a member of this organization you must be able to sing reasonably well and be willing to work and co-operate with our able directress Hester K. Fleck.

The Senior Glee Club makes its first appearance in their black skirts and white blouses at Strawbridge and Clothier's where they present part of the annual Christmas concert.

For several weeks before the annual Spring Concert the girls are busy getting their pastel formals ready to wear at this musical function.

Baccalaurette concludes the Glee Clubs' calendar when the girls in the tenth and eleventh gradessing several sacred numbers to help make Baccalaurette something no senior will ever forget.

CHEERLEADERS

Cheerleaders, Pat Schnell and Nancy Callow leading the student body in a peppy cheer.

Cheerleading is probably the noisiest activity of our school. Below is a picture of the cheerleaders whose job it is to help unite the student body. The cheerleaders are most noticed at the athletic functions of the school, leading the students in cheers. They are also active in magazine sales, the U. M. and Hatboro assembly, ticket sales, etc. The girls practiced hard to live up to the high standard set for our cheerleaders.

HOCKEY

Some of the members of the field hockey squad relax after a hard day.

Miss Alma Corson, our new physical education teacher and coach, joined us this year. "Coach", as she is called, was a former student of Hatboro High School where she participated in all varsity sports. Later she attended East Stroudsburg State Teachers College and played on the varsity hockey, basketball and tennis teams.

Under her direction, our basketball and hockey teams have expanded, and a larger inter-scholastic schedule has developed. She has also done an excellent job in the gym classes teaching modern dancing, calisthenics, tap dancing, tumbling, and volleyball. Here's wishing her luck with our future teams.

In December the call went out for all basketball candidates to report for practice for the coming 1951-1952 season. Soon the varsity was chosen and tactics were practiced in preparation for the opening game. Although hampered by inexperience, the Hatters got off to a successful start by winning their opening game with Morrisville on December 11, the final score ending 40-38.

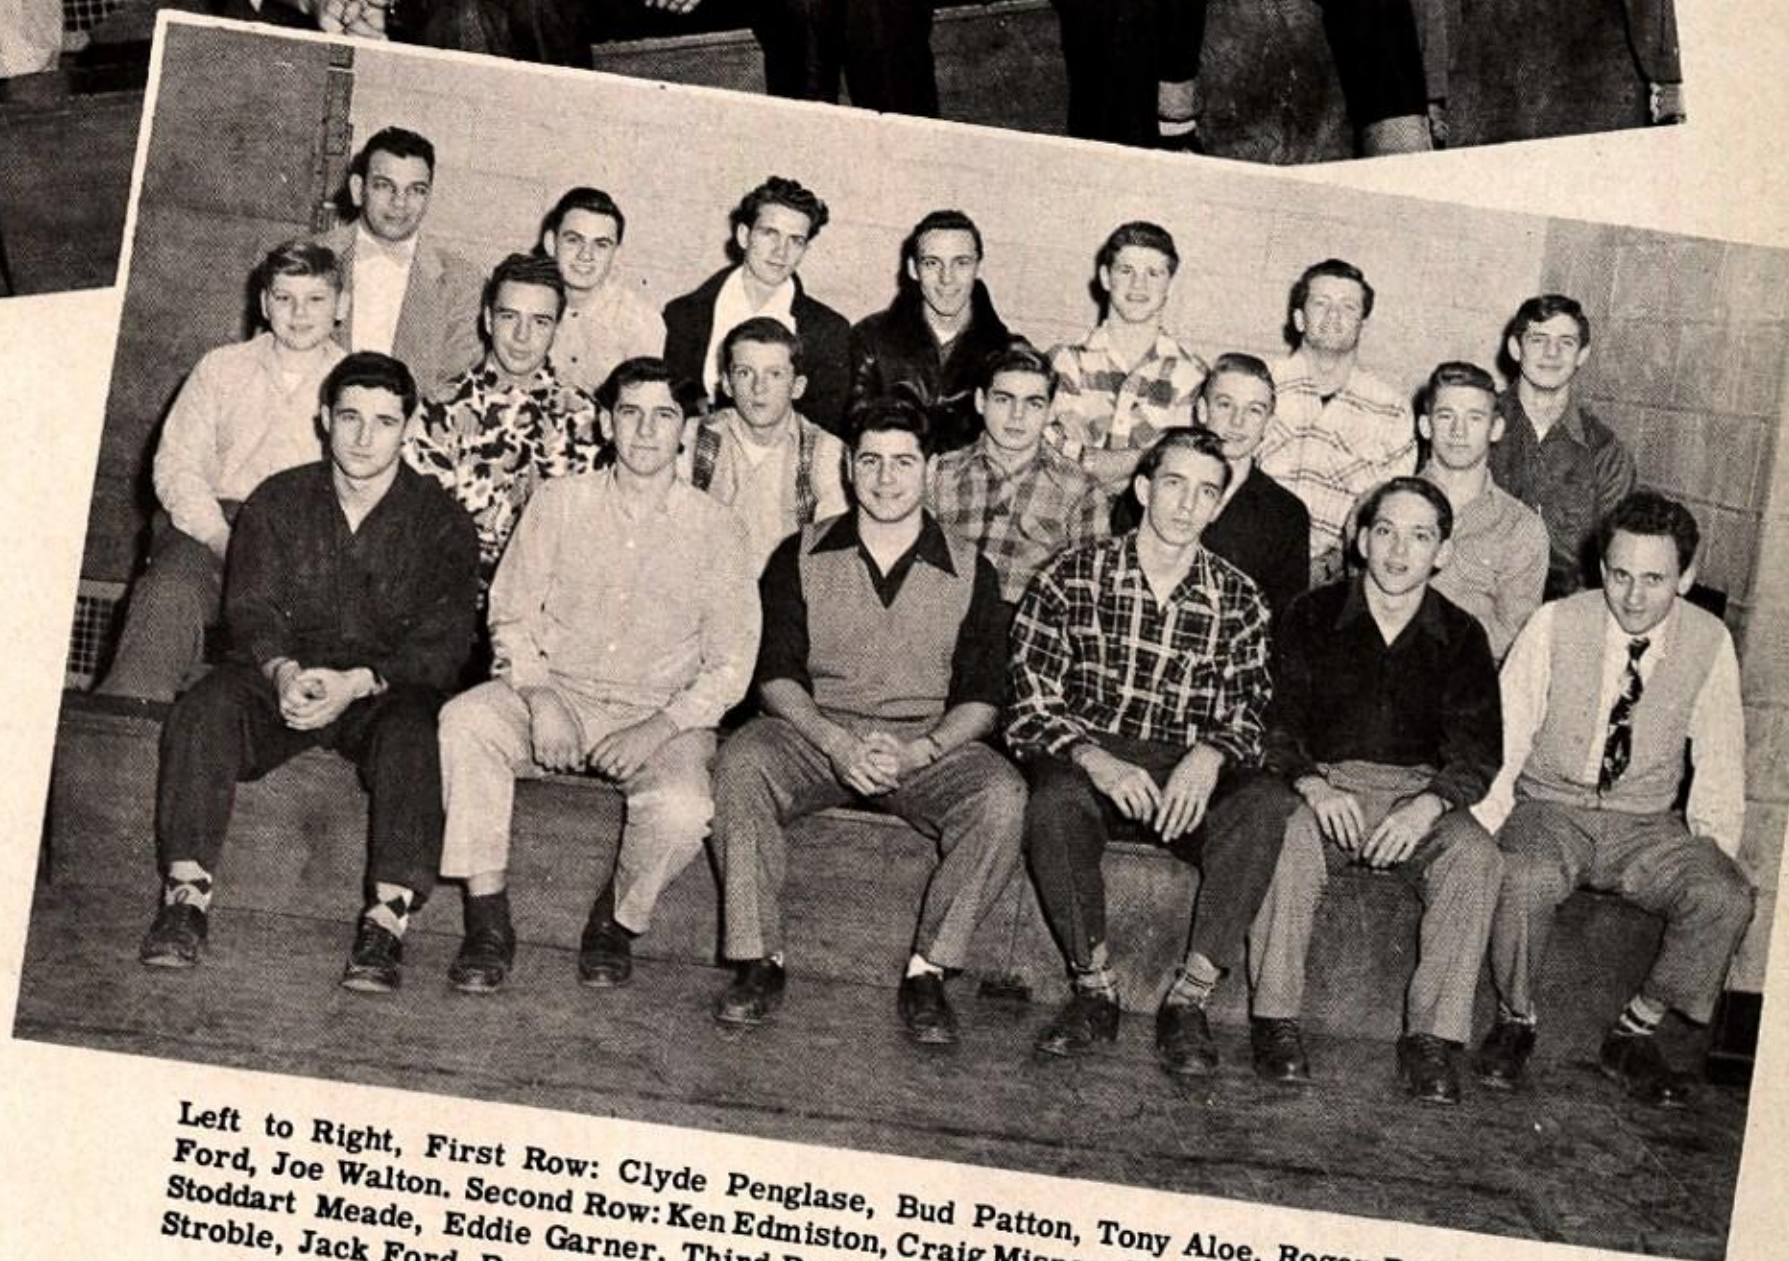

The team under Mr. Orloske's coaching further developed their ability. The second game with Souderton ended with a victory, the score being 45-42 at the sound of the final whistle.

Even though the Hatters had their off nights, the season was an exciting one. Captain Howard Pentz and the boys deserve a big hand for the splendid sportsmanship they displayed throughout the season and for the splendid games they played.

Led by co-captains Enos Garrar and Bob L. Ford Hatboro's 1951 track team had a successful season. Running 2nd in the mile relay at the Penn Relays was the season's outstanding achievement. Don Lear, John Young, Fred Mayer, and Howell Jenkins were the runners in this event. The 1952 season shows promise with these 4 lettermen returning: Captain John Young, who runs the 440, 220, & 100; Jack Ford, High hurdler; Don Lear, running the 440 & 100, and putting the shot; and Eddie Garner, the miler.

The 10 and 3 record achieved by the baseball team of 1951 brought the overall won-lost record for the last five years, under the coaching of Mr. Lynaugh, to 28 wins and 21 losses. This record is good and Mr. Lynaugh hopes to make it better in 1952.

Claude Rumer led the pitchers with 6 and 1, including a sweet no-hit job against Southampton. Bob Belli won 4; lost 1. Shortstop Jack Wright took the batting honors with a nifty .412 average. Earl Carrell, third sacker, and catcher Joe Robinson each collected a home run. Captain Russ Alden was a standout at first base and with the bat.

In preparation for the season, Mr. Lynaugh first had the pitchers and catchers work out in the gymnasium. As soon as the weather permitted, batting and fielding workouts began. These practices were led by the two returning lettermen, Captain John Stellander and Bob Belli. Other returning members of last year's team are John Farnen, Bart Wilson, Jack Beam, Ray Lucera and Jim Lythgoe. The team has rounded into shape very well since the beginning of practices and they are looking forward to a very successful season.

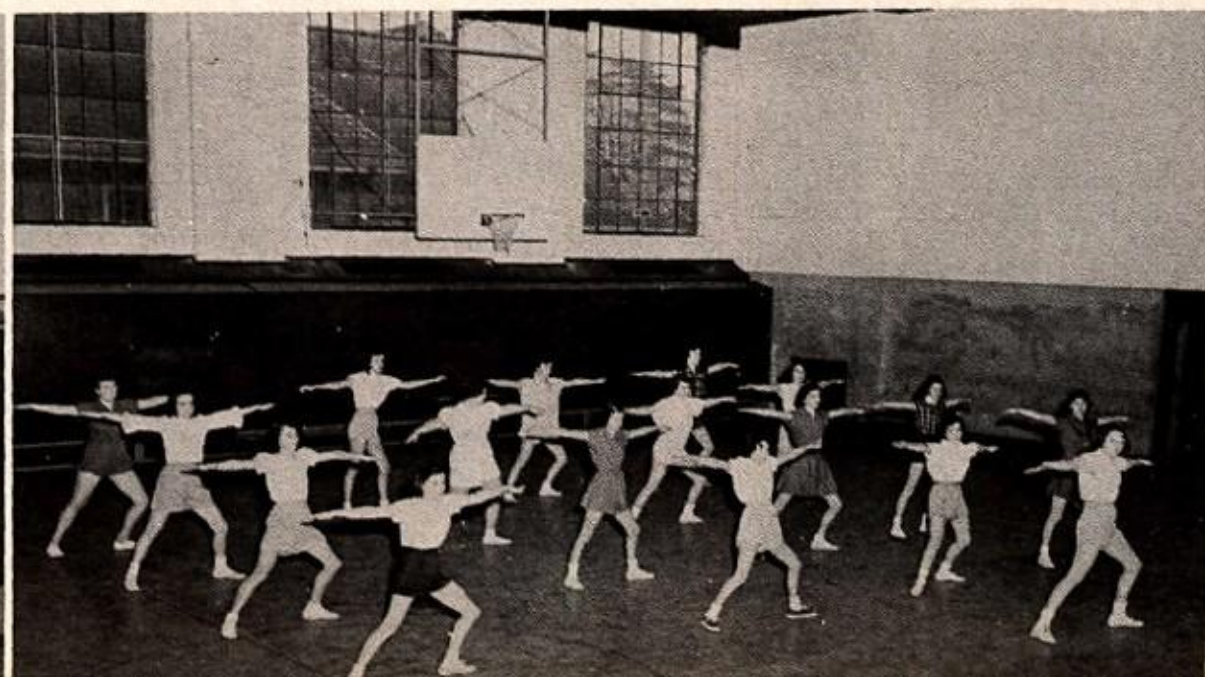

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

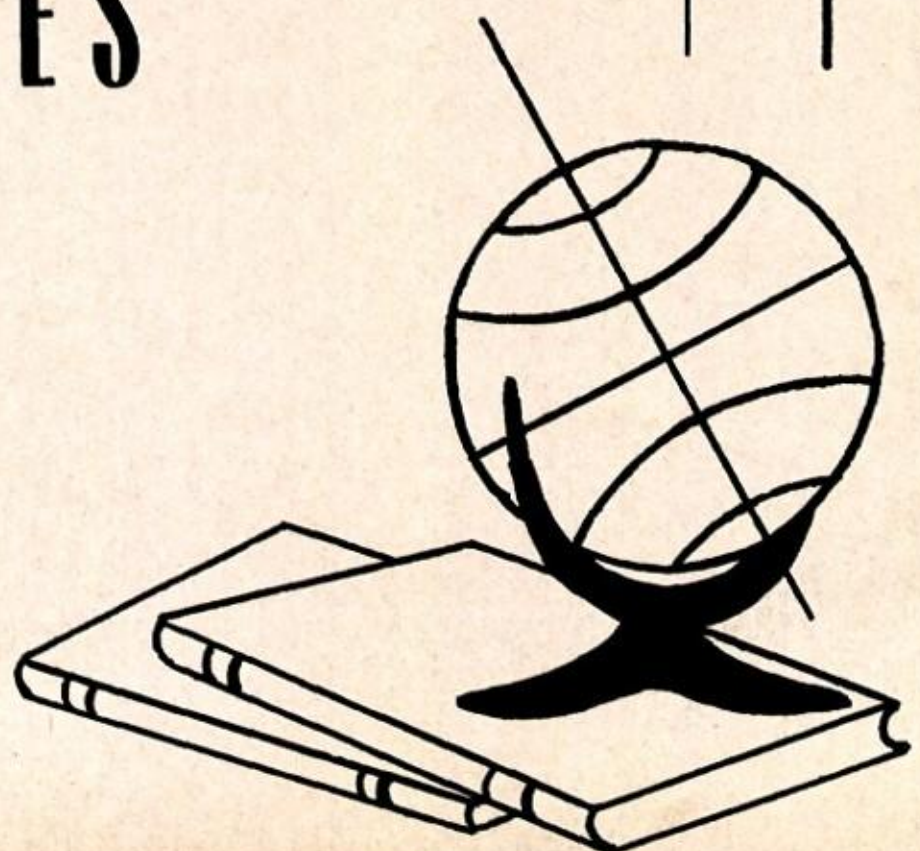

Twice weekly every boy and girl rushes to the locker rooms to dress for gym classes. These classes consist not only of learning the usual exercises and drills but also of learning games appropriate to the season. While the boys have tumbling and parallel bar training, the girls have modern dancing.

Hockey, soccer and basketball are the girls' main sports in the fall and winter; softball in the spring.

Intramural sports for boys and girls play a large part in our school activities.

CLASS HISTORY

As we entered the doors of Hatboro High School on our first day as sophomores, we thought back over the events of the last year. We couldn't help remembering those first few days of confusion, the wonderful Freshman Reception, and our dreaded exams, which weren't really so bad after all. But now we were sophomores and had other, more important things to think about. Uppermost in our minds was our one big dance, the Sophomore Hop. The outstanding feature of the Hop was the underwater theme. Davy Jones' Locker was never like this! Another event in our sophomore year was our trip to the Philadelphia Navy Yard and the picnic in Ted Atkinson's woods that followed. The weeks sped by like clouds before a storm; and before we knew it, the magazine campaign was over and we were again faced with finals. After two days of actually thinking -- "Look, Mom, I'm a junior." The first activity in our Junior year was the annual Thanksgiving dance. Soon after that we added our contribution to the theatre -- THAT CRAZY SMITH FAMILY, which was really fun and a great success. As soon as it was over, we began concentrating on plans for our Prom; and as the night grew nearer, our excitement mounted. When it finally arrived, everything was perfect. None of us will ever forget it. But we didn't have time to think of it for very long because we all developed a bad case of vacation fever.

This didn't last long (vacations never do), and just like that we were back at Hatboro as seniors. We started off the year with our traditional Christmas card sale and followed that up with the professional presentation of the class play, ME AND MY SHADOW. Another event in this last and all-important year was "The Great Fire of '52," a small blaze in the boiler room that might have been a tragedy had it not been extinguished quickly. As soon as our mid-years were over, we began counting the days until our invasion of Washington. All that can be said about it is that we couldn't have had more fun, and we never knew that three days could go so fast. As soon as we returned, we began hearing plans for the juniors' super-colossal Prom. It really was another never-to-be-forgotten evening, but naturally we couldn't admit it was better than ours. Our Baccalaureate and graduation ceremonies were suddenly over, and we were getting ready for our farewell party, truly a fitting close for our year of work and play at Hatboro-Horsham High School.

JUNIOR CLASS

Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Finney, Miss Forbes, and Mr. Williams, the juniors take an active role in the functions of the school.

The first step taken by the junior class this school year, as others, was to organize their class and to elect class officers. After much thought Stanley Knipe was elected president; Stoddart Meade, vice-president; Eileen Connor, treasurer; and Carol Murphy, secretary.

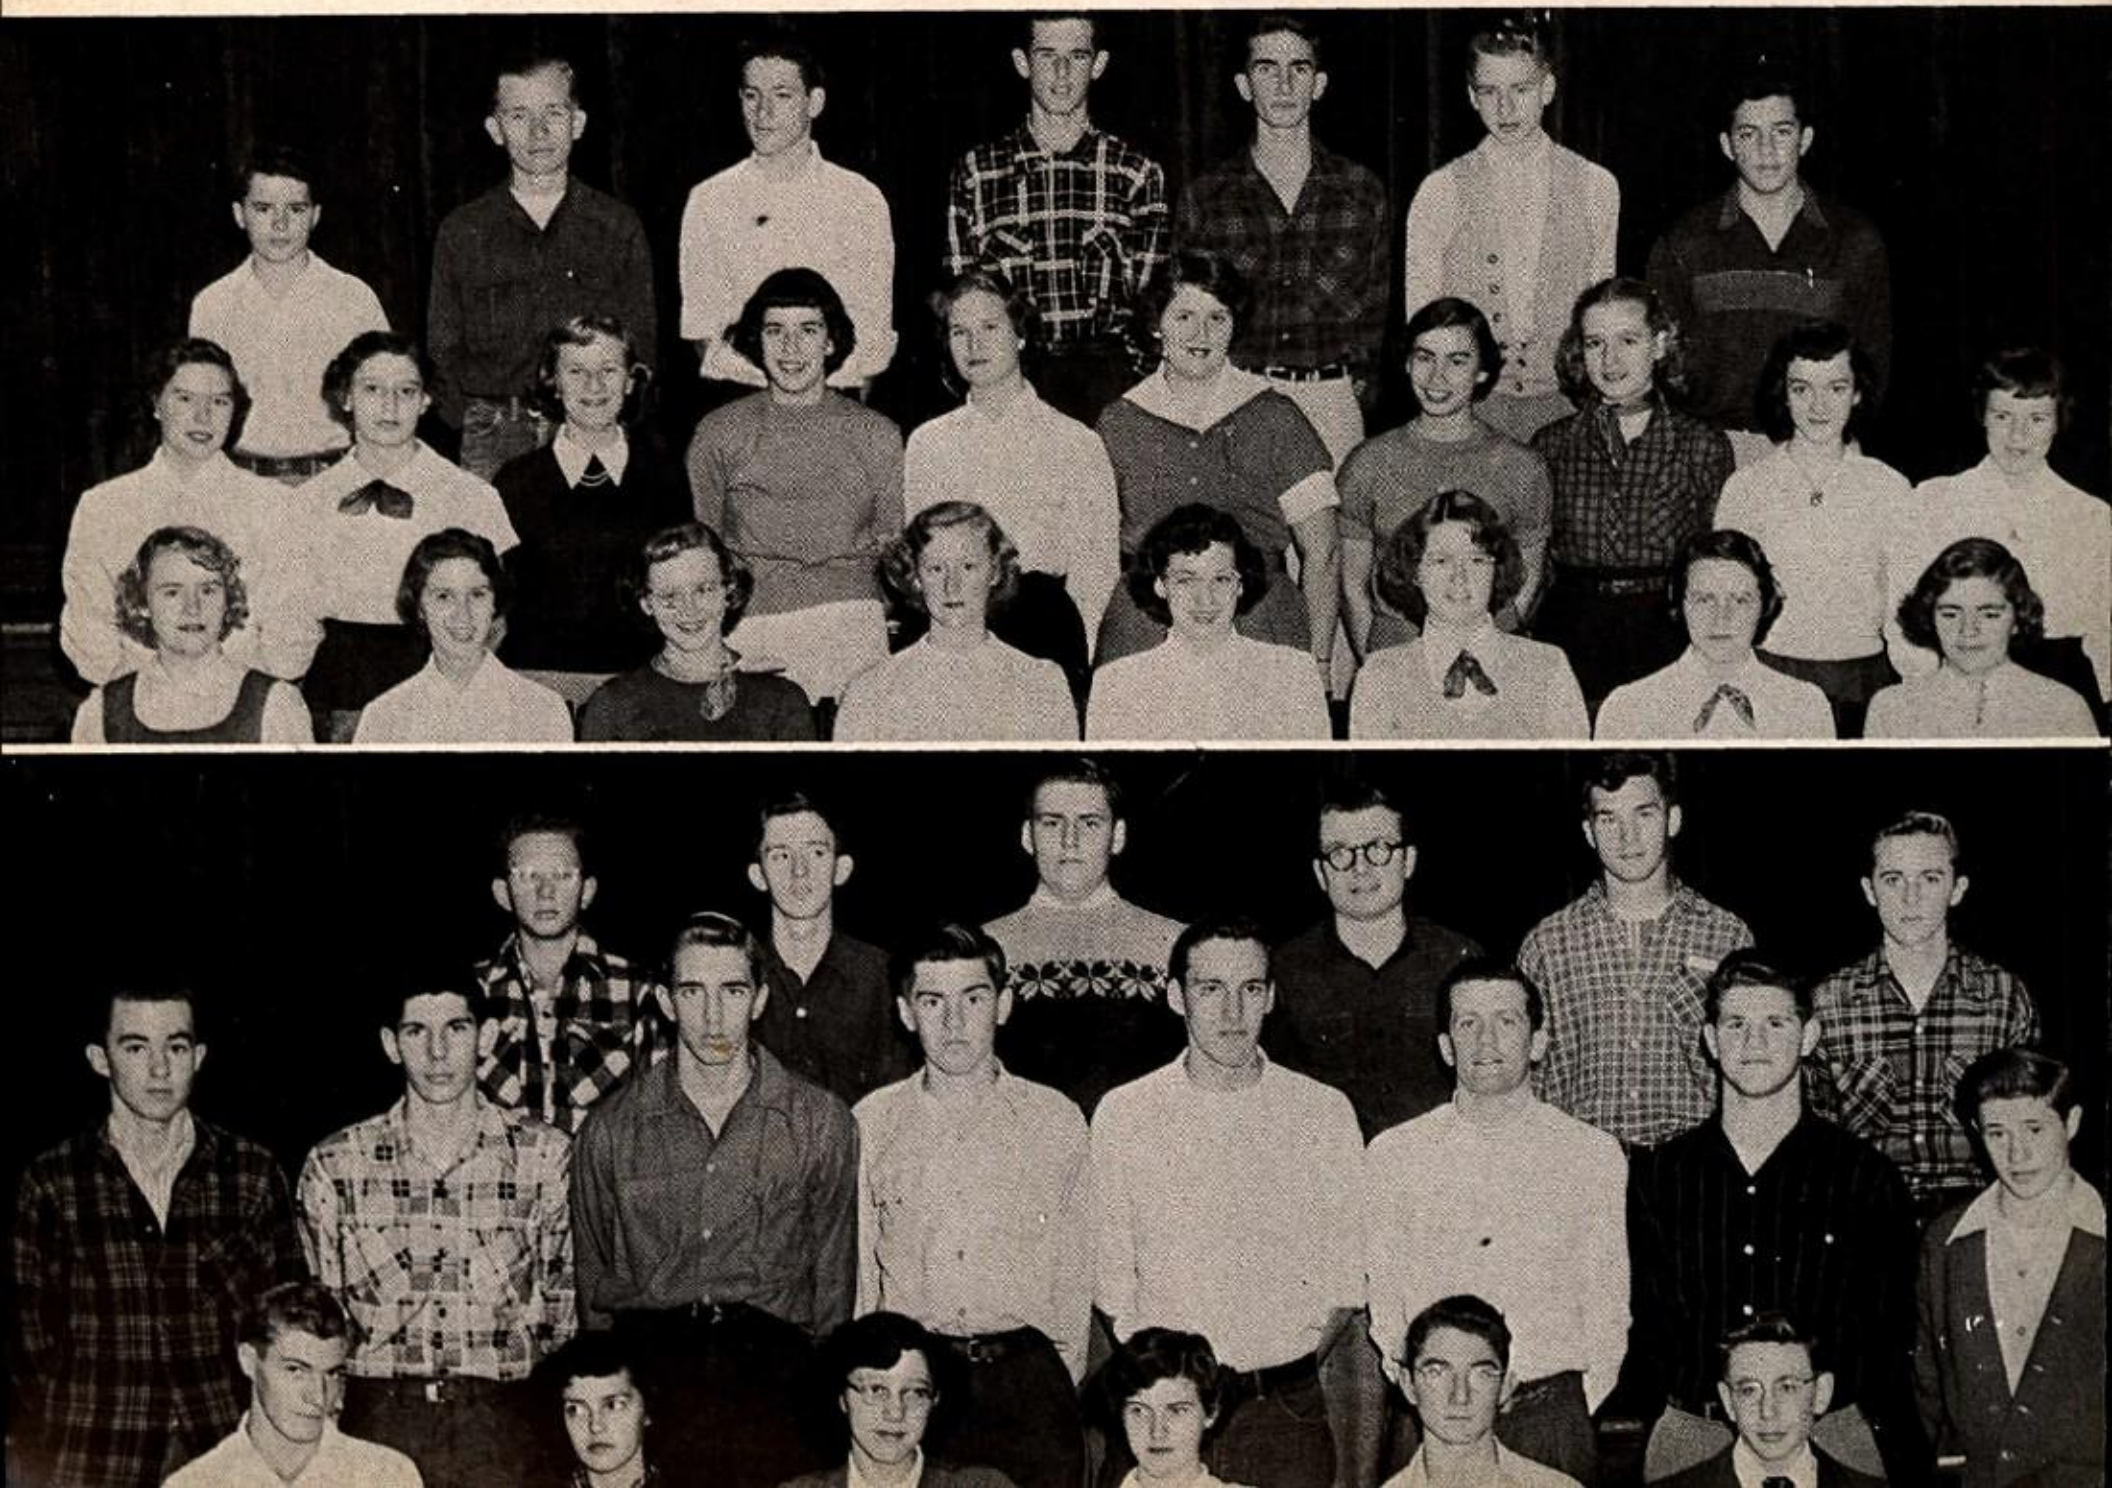

This year the coveted position of vice-president of Student Council is held by a junior, Beverly Hanley. Later in the year, elections for next year's Student Council officers were held.

In the beginning of the school year a contest for the sale of football season tickets took place among the classes of the senior high school. The juniors edged the seniors out for first place by $\frac{1}{2}$ per cent and topped the sophomores by a much wider margin. Because of this victory they were entitled to all the profits resulting from the sale of hot dogs at the home football games.

The Victory Dance was a perfect ending to Thanksgiving Day. Light refreshments, beautiful decorations, dimmed lights, and dreamy music added up to a memorable evening for all the guests.

In February the juniors put their talents together and produced SMARTYPANTS, a three-act comedy directed by Miss Lauer. The play presented a typical girls' school which had only female teachers until a male was sent to the school to teach aviation. Not only was the play a financial success, but it also provided social and dramatic entertainment.

On May 15 the junior class presented the senior class with a dinner-dance at the Spring Mountain House in Schwenksville. Preparations for this gala affair were many and required long weeks of hard work. The unusual place cards and favors, nicely arranged flowers, an enjoyable program, delicious food, music, and eye-catching decorations all helped to make this Prom the outstanding social event of the year.

The juniors had a large part in making the senior graduation a lovely occasion. It was the responsibility of the junior girls to be ushers at the class night program and also at Commencement. Everyone brought flowers to school to be arranged for decorative purposes at the Baccalaureate service as well as at Commencement.

To you, the class of 1953, we the Seniors of 1952, wish you good luck and a prosperous senior year.

COUNSELING

Counseling and guidance play an important part in Hatboro-Horsham Joint High School. Underlying all the work of the school is the guidance program which stresses citizenship. Miss Hamel, our guidance counselor, plays an important role in this program. She directs its general aspects and also finds time to counsel and advise the students individually about their problems. These problems may concern courses of study, college entrance, vocational assistance or anything of a more personal nature. She also directs the testing program which includes the intelligence tests, the Kuder Preference tests and personality tests.

The formal guidance period is planned every Wednesday, fifth period. One teacher from grades nine to twelve meets with Miss Hamel to suggest topics which should be discussed during the guidance period. These teachers discuss the topics with all homeroom teachers, and in turn they present them to the students.

The guidance program is considered one of the most important programs of the school, an invaluable part of each student's program.

LIBRARY

LEFT: Students at work in the library. Reference work and reading are done regularly by many students. They have 65 different magazines and approximately 5000 volumes at their disposal.

RIGHT: Mrs. Stookey, our librarian, and her assistants. The eleven library assistants volunteer their services. They contribute greatly to the smooth functioning of this department.

One department that our school can be especially proud of is the library. Under Mrs. Stookey's capable direction the library has increased in size and material each year.

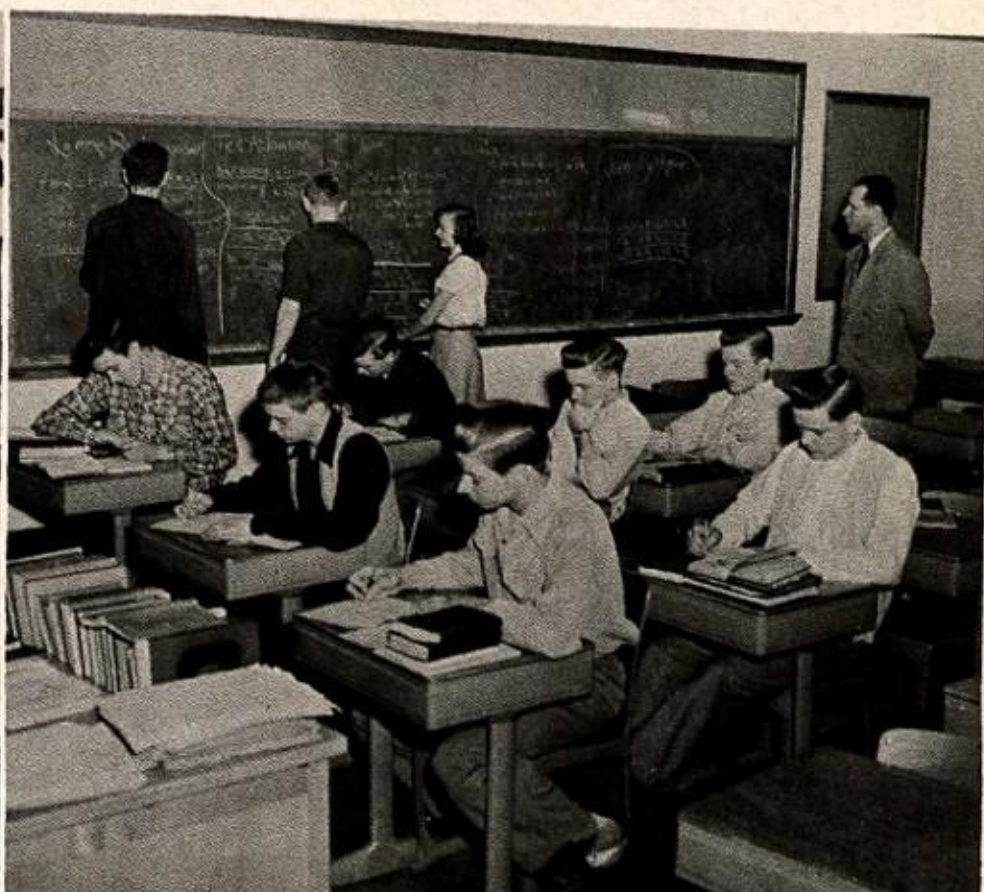

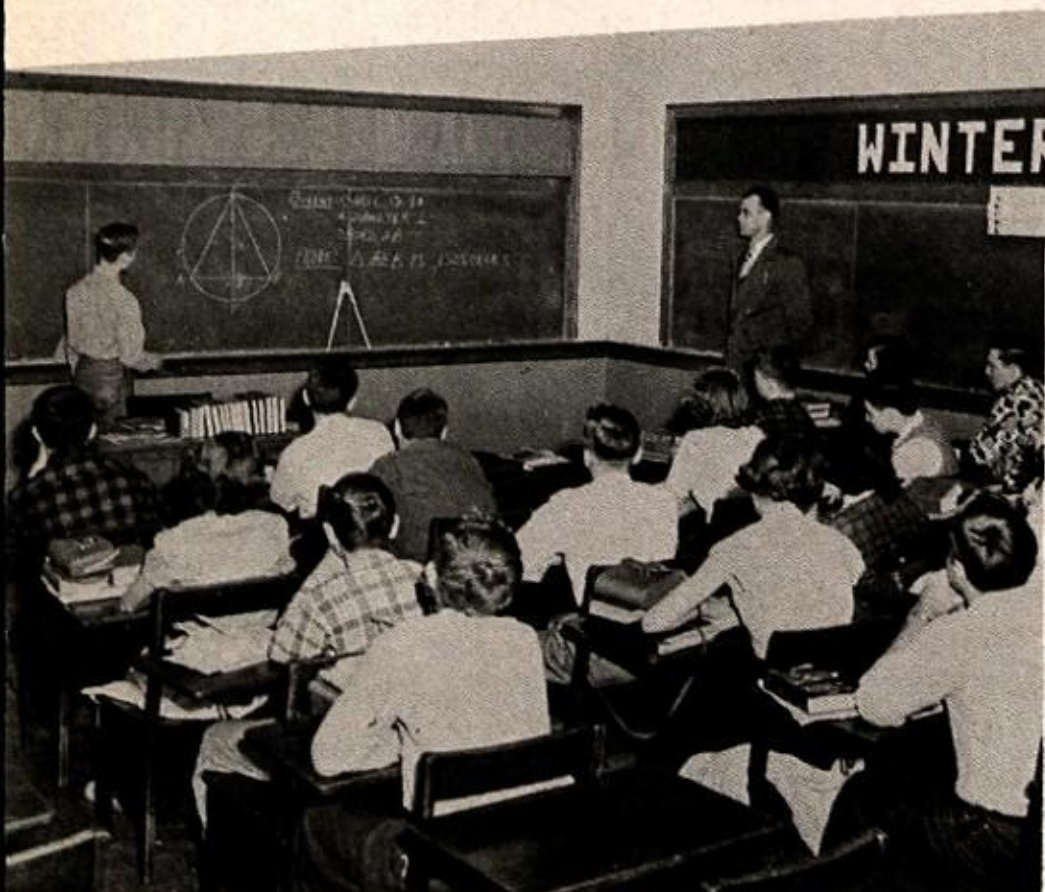

A workroom was a valuable addition to the library in 1951. There, books can be mended, reference cards made and filed, and other general library work accomplished while classes work undisturbed in the outer room.

The library now offers a greater number and variety of books for circulation than ever before in the history of our school.

Being able to work in the new chemistry and biology laboratories add a lot to the educational value of our Science Department. Mrs. Gallagher, Dr. Nevin Sponseller, and Mr. Warren Williams are the instructors in the division of our school. The excellent teaching of these people and the modern laboratories make Hatboro-Horsham High School a Science Department of which everyone is proud.

SOCIAL STUDIES

Civics, taught in the ninth grade, gives a general study of community affairs and government.

Sophomore classes receive a thorough course in American History, from the Revolutionary War to the Korean conflict.

World History is presented in the junior year. Current event reports every Monday and THE AMERICAN OBSERVER discussions on Fridays add life to this interesting class.

In the senior year problems of democracy offers a more detailed study of community life and government. Panel discussions, debates, and speeches cover the greater part of the work in this subject.

RIGHT: Translating English into Latin.

The language department consists of English, Latin, French and Spanish.

The English classes usually consist of grammar, literature, oral work and essays.

The other three languages are academic electives. These classes are fun for everyone. Students learn vocabulary, conjugate verbs, translate and learn about the country of the language which they are studying. During the Christmas season, carols are sung in these languages.

The Spanish class entertains us with a yearly assembly program.

BUSINESS EDUCATION

In the Business Education Department the boys and girls learn desirable work habits such as accuracy, neatness, promptness and manners. They are taught positive attitudes of responsibility, dependability, co-operation and loyalty.

The students electing the various subjects offered by this department find that character and citizenship building plays an important role. High ethical ideals, service, and proper behavior are stressed. They realize that how they work is as important as what they accomplish.

In developing these character traits, the fundamental goal of the department is the attainment of a well-adjusted student who will later become successful on the job as well as a worth-while citizen.

They receive the type of training that will enable them to take their places in social, economic and occupational affairs.

FINE AND INDUSTRIAL ART

BOTTOM: Junior high art class.

The art department offers a varied program of fine and allied arts that are integrated with the course of study, extracurricular activities and community life.

The creativeness and interest in the department is exemplified by their motto: The difficult we do immediately -- the impossible takes a little longer.

CENTER: Shop students running the school press.

BOTTOM: Wood-working class at shop work.

The shop is at present in the process of changing its appearance. Many of the shop students' projects on which they are working are of a nature that will give space in the shop to accommodate our larger enrollment.

Some of the courses of study which are offered to the students are: wood, metal, electrical work, and printing. The more energetic pupils construct chests, cabinets, boats, etc. They also try to cooperate with other classes that need their help.

HOME ECONOMICS

Many things in the Home Economics Cottage have been improved in the past few years. There now are three complete kitchen units, one complete laundry unit, a home nursing center, with which Miss Seiple our school nurse co-operates, a grooming center, some new sewing machines, and a fitting unit for the girls making clothes. Of course, we musn't fail to mention that the cottage living room is now back to normal and can again be used for entertaining.

Miss Scheible and Mrs. Bromley head the Home Economics division of our school, but Miss Scheible frequently has practice teachers working under her from Beaver College and Temple University.

HEALTH

RIGHT: The doctor examines a student's ear.

Medical examinations are given each year to all the odd numbered grades. Other than the usual examinations, chest X rays, if desired, are taken; and follow-up work is done on all defective medical cases. Each year all students are weighed and their height measured.

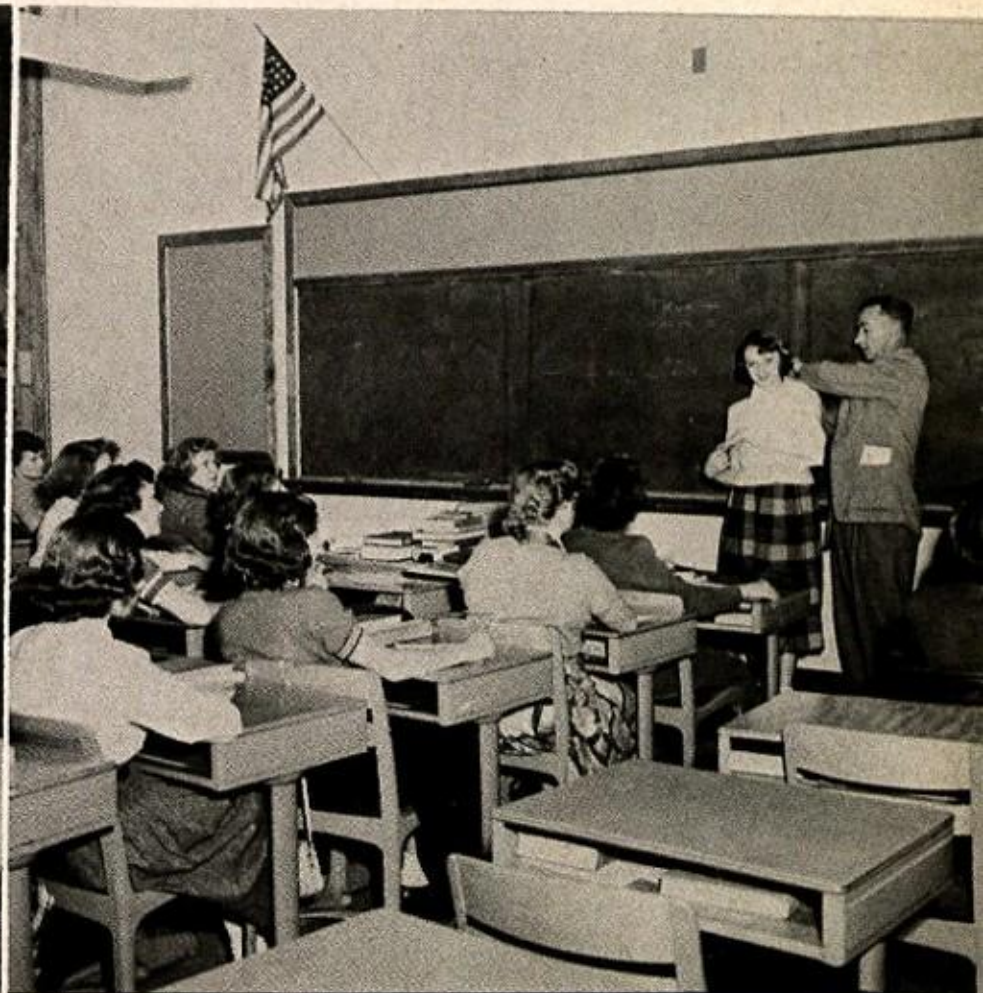

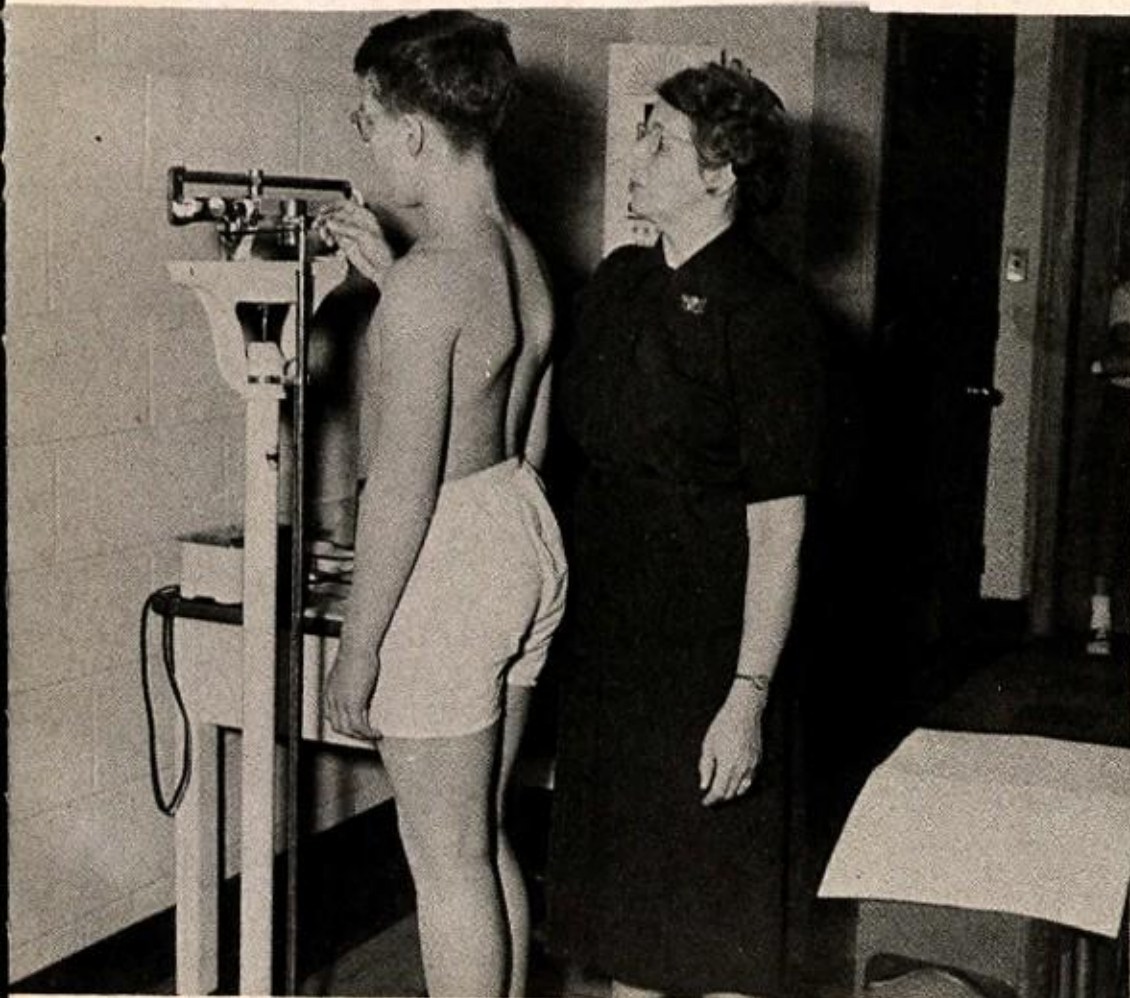

HEALTH

Another part of the health program is dental examinations. This work is done each year in all the odd numbered grades. The picture on the right shows Dr. Zetterberg examining our editor-in-chief's teeth.

F I N I S

Before closing the pages of this book which represents our last class activity, we wish to thank the many people who have helped us in so many different ways. First, our thanks go to Mrs. Charlotte D. Greiner, our sponsor. Next to Zamsky Studios, who were so kind about taking nearly all of the pictures in this book. Then to all of the teachers in our school system who have co-operated so fully with the entire staff. Finally, we thank our German exchange student, Hellmut Doeffer, for being with us this year and inspiring our theme, One World.
